Post Whittier's Tribute to the Centennial

Occasion.

Noble Sentiments Expressed by Writers of Prose and Verse.

Here is in full the poem written by the poet Whittier for this Centennial occasion and de-

The Vow of Washington, i)— sword was sheathed; in April's sun or green the fields by Freedom wan; all sewerel sections, wary in debates, amed hands x'last and were United States in Mr. Depews Centennial oration:

We celebrate to-day the centenary of our nationality. One hundred years ago the United States began their existence. The powers of government were assumed by the people of the hepablic, and they became the sole source of authority. The solemn ceremonial of the first imaguration, the reverent oath of Washington, the acclaim of the multitude greeting their President, marked the most unique event of modern times in the development of free institutions.

NOT AN ACCIONAT BUT A BESULT. NOT AN ACCIDENT, BUT A RESULT.

The occasion was not an accident, but a re-ir. It was the culmination of the working out mighty forces through many centuries of the SIGNIFICANCE OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS, The Continental Congress partially grasped, but completely expressed, the central idea of the American Republic. More fully than any other body which ever a seembled did it represent the victories won from arbitrary power for human rights. In the New World it was the conservator of liberties secured through centuries of struggle in the Old.

REACTIONARIES, NOT REVOLUTIONISTS. These men were not revolutionists, they were the heirs and the guardians of the priceless treasures of mankind. The British King and his Ministers were the revolutionists. These men were reactionaries, seeking arbitrarily to turn back the hands upon the dial of time. A TRIBUTE TO HARRISON'S ANCESTOR.

A TRIBUTE TO HABRISON'S ANCESTOR.

Beniamin Harrison, a delegate from Virginia, the ancester of the distinguished statesmar and soldier who to-day so worthly fills the char of Washington, voiced the unalterable determination and defiance of the Congress. He reized John Hancock, upon whose head a price was set, in his arms, and placing him in the Presidential Chair, said: 'We will show Mother Britain how little we care for her by making our President a Massachusetts man, whom she has excinded from pardon by public proclamation'; and when they were signing the Declaration, and the eleder Elbridge Gerry uttered the grim pleasantry, 'We must hang together or surely we will hang separately.' the portly Harrison responded with the more daring humor, 'It will be all over with me in a moment, but you will be kicking in the air half an hour after I am gone, 'Thus flashed athwart the great Charter, which was to be for its signers a death-warrant or a diploma of immortality, as with tirm hand, high purpose and undamned resolution they subscribed their names, this mockery of fear and the penalties of treason.

A CONQUERING DOCUMENT.

The Constitution, which was to be strengthened by the strain of a century, to be a mighty conquerer without a subject province, to triumphantly survive the greatest of civil wars without the confiscation of an estate of the execution of a political offender, to create and grant home rule and state sovereignty to twenty-hine additional commonwealths, and yet chiarge its scope and broaden its power, and to make the name of an American citizen a title of honor throughout the world, came complete from this great Convention to the people for adoption.

BOUNDLESS FATTH IN WASHINGTON.

BOUNDLESS PATTH IN WASHINGTON, The multitudes whom no argument could convince, who saw in the executive power and centralized force of the Constitution, under another name, the dreaded usurpation of king and ministry were satisfied only with the assurance. "Washington will be President." "Good, "cried John Lamb, the able leader of the Sons of Liberty, as he dropped his opposition, "for to no other mortal would I trust authority so enormous." "Washington will be President, "was the battle ry of the Constitution. It quieted alarm god gave confidence to the timid and courage to the weak.

His entry into New York was worthy the city and State. He was met by the chief officers of the retiring government of the country, by the Governor of the Commonwealth and the whole population. This superb harbor was alive with fleets and flags, and the sinps of other nations with salutes from their guns, and the cheers of their crews added to the joyous acclaim. But as the captains who had asked the privilege, bending proudly to their oars, rowed the President's barge swiftly through these inspiring scenes. Washington's mind and heart were full of reminiscence and foreboding.

THEY SAW ONLY WASHINGTON. THEY SAW ONLY WASHINGTON.

Washington was never dramatic, but on great occasions he not only rose to the full ideal of the event, he became himself the event. One hundred years ago to-day, the procession of foreign ambassators, of statesmen, and generals, of civic societies and military companies, which escorted him, marched from Franklin Square to Pearl street, through Pearl to Broad, and up Broad to this spot, but the people saw only Washington.

TARING THE OATH OF OFFICE.

The Chancellor solemnly read to him the oath of office, and Washington, repeating, said: "I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my slidity, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States." Then he reverently bent how and kissed the Bible, uttering with ord undemotion: "So help me, God." The minimal cellor waved his robes and shouted: "It is done; long live George Washington, I resident of the United States." "Long live George Washington, our first President!" was the answering cheer of the people, and from the belief ries rang the bells, and from forts and shins thundered the cannon, echoing and repeating the cry with responding acclaim all over the TARING THE OATH OF OFFICE.

To Dislodge the Enemy,

When it takes the form of disease of the kidneys of bladder, is a task well nigh impossible of accomplish-ment. Renal and vesical maladies are more obstinate than any others. Counteract, therefore, the earliest indications of inactivity of the many organs with Hotetter's Stomach Bitters, which possess, among other excellent qualities, those of an efficient diurctic. The degree of stimulation apparent from its use reaches, but never goes beyond, the bounds of safety. It invigorates always, never irritates. Bright's disease, diabetes, catarrh of the bladder, are diseases successfully ourabated in their incipiency with this benign medical stimulant and tonic. Besides reinforcing and regulating the kidneys and bladder, the Bitters is a specific for fever and ague, constipation and dyspensia.

NOW FIRST PRESENTED TO THE NOVEL-READING PUBLIC.

problem of self-government. It was not the triumph of a system, the application of a theory, or the reduction to practice of the abstractions of philosophy.

The time, the country, the heredity and environment of the people, the folly of its cuemies and the noble courage of its friends, gave to liberty after ages of defeat, of trial, of experiment, of partial success and substantial gains, this immortal victory. Henceforth it had a refuge and recruiting station. The oppressed found free homes in this favored land, and invisible armies marched from it by mail and telegraph, by speech and song, by precept and example to regenerate the world.

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE CONTINENTAL CONGRESS. Posterity owes to Washington's Administration the policy and measures, the force and direction which made posselde this glorous result. In giving the organization of the Department of State and foreign relations to Jefferson, the Treasury to Hamilton and the Supreme Court to Jay, he selected for his Cabinet and called to his assistance the ablest and most eminent men of his time. Upon the plan marked out by the Constitution, this great architect, with unfailing fathland unfaltering courage, builded the Republic. He gave to the Government the principles of action and sources of power which carried it successfully through the wars with Great Britain in 1812 and Mexico in 1848, which enabled Jackson to defeat unliftestion, and recruited and equipped millions of men for Lincoln and justified and sustained his Proclamation of Emancipation.

BETWEEN THE TWO CENTURIES.

between the first and second century of constitutween the first and second century of constitutional government. There are no clouds overhead and no convulsions under our feet. We reverently return thanks to Aimight; God for the past, and with confident and hoseful promise march upon sure ground towards the future.
The simple facts of these hundred years paralyze the imagination, and we contemplate the vast accumulations of the century with awe and price. Our population has grown from four to sixty-five millions, its centre moving westward five numbred miles since 1780, is elongent with the founding of cities and the birth of States. New fettlements, clearing the forests and suddling the prairies, and adding four millions to the few thousands of farms

wealth,

THE TRIUMPH OF AMERICA.

But to-day the American people, after all the dazzling developments of the century, are still happidy living under the flovernment of Washington. The Constitution during all that period has been amended only upon the lines laid down in the original instrument, and in conformity with the recorded opinions of the fathers. The first great addition was the incorporation of a Bill of Rights, and the last the embedding irto the Constitution of the immortal principle of the Declaration of Independence—of the equality of all men before the law. No crisis has been too perilons for its powers, no evolution too rapid for its adaptation, and no expansion beyond its easy grasp and administration. It has assimilated diverse nationalities with warring traditions, customs, conditions and languages, imbined them with its spirit, and won their passionate loyalty and love.
